7:30: Song service led by A. W. McKee and choir

Sermon by Mr. B. B. Crimm: "Our Relationship to the Kingdom."

The tabernacle was crowded last night to hear B. B. Crimm talk on "The Soul's Conflict With the Devil." In the morning the tabernacle was two-thirds full to hear Crimm discuss the great subject of "prayer." Don't miss these morning meetings. Last night after a soul-stirring song service led by Mr. McKee and a choir of over 125 voices in which he had the whole audience in a good humor and kept them wondering what was coming next, Mr. Crimm took his text from 7th, 8th, 10th chapters of Exodus. He told in a marvelous way about Joseph going to see his brothers. They became jealous of him and put him in the pit. Some Egyptians traveling through the country gave the brothers a chance to get rid of Joseph they selling him to the men from Egypt. After Joseph arrived in Egypt the men became jealous of him and were sore because he was a Christian and put him in jail. Many men were in jail and they had dreams and Joseph interpreted them. Pharaoh who was the king had a dream and wanted it interpreted and they told him that there was a guy in jail that could tell him all about his dream. He sent for Joseph and he came and interpreted his dream. The dream was that he saw seven fat cattle and seven lean ones, and the lean ones ate up the fat ones.

Joseph told them they would have seven years of plenty and then seven years of hard times. You folks had a good time making money during the war and went to hell as fast as you could and now hard times are here and you are kicking to beat two-bits. That's the way it was in Joseph's time.

Pharaoh knew that when hard times would come he would have to have some one to take care of the grain and food so he gave it in charge of Joseph and that's where we got our first food administrator it was not Hoover it was Joseph who was the first man to measure out food, Mr. Joseph Hoover.

Crimm said that God wanted a man to lead His people out of bondage and he went out and got a shepherd boy called Moses to lead His people. God very seldom calls a person who is always in the limelight or who is fooling with the things of earth and doing society. Society and religion won't mix. So God got Moses from the back woods. All our great men of today or past days come from the back woods. Moses went down to Pharaoh's country to lead God's people out of bondage. Pharaoh knew he had a hold on the people and wanted to keep that hold. He knew that if another came in they might take them from him. Pharaoh knew there was a God and was afraid of him. Moses went down and walked up to Pharaoh and acted as though he owned the universe and he could do that because he had the backing of a true God. I'll tell you folks if the church of Jesus Christ was right with God they could command God and move this old town for Christ. Pharaoh asked Moses what he wanted. Moses said God has sent me down to lead His people out of bondage and over to the promised land. Pharaoh said nothing doing you can't do it. Now Moses did not say alright I'll go back home. He didn't do that. If he had a backbone of string and pink tea for blood like some church folks in Bryan he would have quit. But Moses stuck by and won out. Crimm likened Pharaoh to the devil and the Israelites who Moses was to lead out the Christian and church.

Pharaoh said "nothing doing, stay on the border so I can rule over you." and that is what the devil is saying to you tonight. Stay on the side of the world and you have a

ORGANIZED SHOT-GUN CLUB TO COMBAT THE KU KLUX MOVEMENT

(Special to the Eagle).

Fresno, Cal., March 8.—Aroused by the re-appearance of an armed body of men dressed in the regalia of the Ku Klux Klan, which last Sunday night visited the Baptist tabernacle at Fellows, California, residents of Maricopa organized a shot gun squad awaiting further developments according to the story published in the Fresno Republican today. These things follow a clean-up campaign in this section to combat the crime wave that is sweeping California. The Ku Klux have endorsed the general clean-up.

LAWLESS ELEMENT THREATEN

Taft, Cal., March 8.—Five automobiles carrying masked and hooded men in the regalia of the Ku Klux Klan were driven to the Baptist tabernacle of the Rev. Van Dyke Todd at Fellows last night, during the regular service and, leaving the other occupants outside, three members of the band entered the tabernacle, informed the Rev. Todd that they were "for him," and donated $15 to the church funds. The Rev. Todd has been the object of two communications recently, both of which were signed "K. K. K." The first threatened him if he did not discontinue sermons which he had been preaching against lawlessness in the oil fields. A second letter received a few days after it became known that he was the object of a "warning," commended his pulpit stand against the "open town" element and declared that the "Triple K" had no connection with the first warning he received. It is stated by those who claim to know, that on account of lax enforcement of the law the K. K. K. was organized.

KAW PAVING COMPANY IS WORKING IN BRYAN

City Manager E. E. McAdams states that the Kaw Paving Co., representatives are in Bryan to repair the paving they put down under contract with the city and Manager McAdams asks if any citizen knows of any needed repairs he will thank them to call his attention to it. The repairing will be looked after by the company.

JOE BORISKE GIVEN THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL

Sheriff L. E. Morehead and Chief W. S. Martin have returned from Houston where they were summoned as witnesses before the Federal Court grand jury. It was learned today that Joe Boriske, charged with operating a whiskey still in Bryan, pleaded guilty and was fined $1000 and given 90 days in jail. Federal Judge Hutcherson then took the question under advisement and after a hearing reduced the punishment to 30 days in jail without a fine.

Mrs. John Gregg and Mrs. Albert Hannaman are in the city today from their plantation homes in the Brazos river bottom.

Victor Andrews, Clyde Goen and C. R. L. Jones, of Harvey, A. C. Williams of Cottonwood and Bob Batten of Cottonwood, were among the business farmers trading with the Bryan Merchants today.

Mrs. J. L. Brook is in Dallas to attend a meeting of the Executive committee and is doing a grand work for her church in that capacity.

you how narrow I am. I am as broad as this old Bible and as narrow as this old Bible and if any person in Bryan thinks I am going to trim my message to please them they are barking up the wrong tree. Let me say in closing that the religion of Jesus Christ is good enough for old folks and young folks. It is good enough for rich folks and poor folks. It is good enough for common folks and what you call "society" folks and without the religion of Jesus Christ you cannot enter the Kingdom of Heaven."

With three penitentiary sentences, one for two years and the other one year each, imposed by the petit jury of the District Court of Brazos county Judge W. C. Davis presiding, during the first two days of this week, a record for quick action has been achieved. On Monday Jack King, charged with possession of whiskey for the purpose of selling it, was convicted and given a one year sentence in the penitentiary. On about February 22 he came to Bryan from Navasota and officers seized his suit case containing six one-half gallon fruit jars full of corn whisky, seen in the possession of the defendant. King is also charged with transporting liquor and there are three indictments remaining against him, charging him with having solicited orders for whiskey.

On Monday afternoon George and John Ellis, both negroes of Bryan, were up for trial, but on motion of both defendants, a severance was granted and Jno. Ellis was placed on the stand. He was convicted on a charge of having manufactured intoxicating liquor in Bryan December 24. He was given a sentence of one year in the penitentiary. His brother, George Ellis, will be tried at a later date during the present session of the District Court.

On Tuesday afternoon, the second day of the fourth week of District Court Wesley Cramer, a negro was given a two-year sentence in the penitentiary, convicted of having manufactured intoxicating liquor. His still was seized December 27 last, by Brazos county officers at his home in Bryan.

County Attorney J. G. Minkert stated Wednesday that the court of criminal appeals at Austin has affirmed the two-year penitentiary sentence against the negro, Charley Anderson, charged with the manufacture of intoxicating liquor, which term was imposed upon him by the Brazos county district court during its fall term.

"It appears to me that it has become easier to convict men on bootlegging charges lately," said County Attorney Minkert. He said that there appears to be a tendency on the part of judges and the general public to regard violations of the laws more gravely than hitherto. "It is a good sign of the times. You will notice that most of the men convicted nowadays are men under 30 years of age. After that period of life few men turn out to be criminals. By the time a man is 30 years old, if he has ever done a crime, he has either reformed entirely or he has become a criminal permanently," County Attorney Minkert added.

The White Murder Case.

The case of Onie and Horace White, charged with the murder of Dr. B. Harrison some three years ago in Grimes county was called before Judge Davis, the case having been transferred on a change of venue from Grimes county. The case is now some three years old and has been postponed until May 23.

THE HORACE AND ONIE WHITE MURDER TRIAL POSTPONED MAY 23

The White murder trial was postponed to May 23, May term of the District Court, on motion of the defendants, Wednesday.

The case of Horace and Onie White, charged with the murder of Dr. B. Harrison in 1918, holds unusual interest for citizens of Bryan and Brazos county and the District Court room was packed with the 100 special venire men called, the 36 men called from among whom 12 men will be selected to form petit juries during the present fourth week of the District Court and many spectators when the case was called at 9:30 o'clock by Judge W. C. Davis, Wednesday morning.

Dr. B. Harrison was killed in Grimes county near Beldias on January 8, 1918, and on the same day Horace and Onie White were arrested, charged with the crime. The case was changed to Harris county on a change of venue. Onie White was tried for the crime and given a ten-year sentence in the penitentiary. The Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin reversed and remanded the case for a new trial. The change of venue was granted and the case was sent to Brazos county. In March 1920 defendants were tried in Brazos county and each was given a 20-year sentence in the penitentiary. The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed and remanded the case on the ground that the trial court failed to grant the defendants a continuance on account of the absence of a witness.

Judge J. F. Taulbee of Georgetown, John M. Mathis of Houston and T. P. Buffington of Anderson, Texas, are assisting County Attorney J. G. Minkert in the prosecution. Attorneys for the defendants are E. A. Berry of Houston and the law firm of Henderson and Ransom of Bryan.

The business sessions of the convention were held during Wednesday, March 1, and in the evening an elaborate reception was tendered the visitors in the College parlors in Burt Hall. One of the enjoyable features of entertainment was a pageant "United for Service," given in honor of the visitors by the Baylor girls, and the wonderful music furnished by the Baylor Glee club, was an inspiration. Mrs. Jolly was on the program for an address, and acquitted herself with honor to Bryan and the assembled convention.

BABY CHICKS SHIPPED.

The parcel post department at the Bryan post office was an interesting sight this morning when a full automobile load of live 3500 day-old baby chicks were shipped out from the Bryan hatchery to various towns in Texas and other states. Boxes containing 25, 50 and 100 chicks were shipped some going as far as Louisiana and Oklahoma. San Antonio, Gainsville, Seymour, Dallas, Temple, Comanche, Gorman, Rochelle, Houston, Dawson Juanita were some of the Texas addresses noticed. ### FOUR MURDER PENALTIES WERE AFFIRMED TODAY

Jim Thompson's Death Penalty In Grimes County Affirmed—Four Others Must Pay Penalty of Outraged Law.

(By Associated Press).

Austin, Texas, March 8.—Four death penalties were affirmed by the Court of Criminal Appeals today. They were Albert Woodridge, murder of wife from Colorado county, Abe Johnson, murder from Liberty county; Bernado Munoz and Manuel Padillo of Kaufman county for murder. The court overruled a motion for rehearing in the case of Jim Thompson given death penalty from Grimes county for robbery by firearms. ### CITRUS NOT FROZEN IN VALLEY SECTIONS

Brownsville, Texas, March 2.—Citrus fruit in the truck growing region of the lower Rio Grande valley escaped the serious freeze damage last night, according to reports from points between Mission and Brownsville today. The minimum temperature ranged from 31 at Mission, to 32 at Brownsville, the mercury not standing at freezing point long enough to cause serious damage. The temperature was rising today at Dixon at 10:15 this morning a great gorge of ice in the east dam north of Big Island which was not broken up in the freshets of last week, started to move out, adding its weight to the mass lodged against the wagon bridge. The Dixon-Oregon road is under water for more than a mile.

BRYAN HIGH DEFEATED BY TEXARKANA TEAM

(By Texarkana Team)

Austin, Texas, March 4.—El Paso edged out Stephenville High School in the State Interscholastic League basketball games here last night by score of 17-15. The game was the most sensational of the evening. Lindale beat Edinburg in a one-sided fray 26-13. Waco staged a goal shooting rally in the last half of the game with Polytechnic, won out 21 to 5. After defeating Austin High Bryan was in turn defeated by Texarkana, score being 17-13. It is now between these four winning teams for the state championship.

According to present indications El Paso, Waco and Lindale are perhaps the strongest bets for championship prospects. San Antonio, Breckenridge High, last year's runners-up for the championship, lost out this morning to Polytechnic by the score of 14 to 13, in a closely fought game. El Paso last year's winning team, ran strong against Kibbyville, defeating the latter by a score of 29-13. Lindale brought up a feature of the day by defeating the strong Houston team 36-16.

Stephenville won out over Tulia in a one-sided contest, 23-14. Waco defeated Clara 33-11. Edinburg vanquished Ozona 29-6. Texarkana defeated the Shiner team 35-6; Bryan defeated Austin 18-13. The semi-finals will be played today and the final game for the state championship tonight. Roy B. Henderson head of the interscholastic series is delighted with the spirit being shown among the high school aggregation. Rooters from the different towns are always present to root for their teams. Enthusiasm is being shown in every phase of the games.

United States Industrial Boom Predicted For March

Washington, March 8.—A forecast of great industrial improvement for the month of March was made yesterday by the United States employment service in connection with its monthly report of employment conditions in the United States. "Reports from 231 of the principal industrial centers, with but few exceptions, show a general improvement in employment conditions," Director Jones of the service announced, "and breathe an enthusiastic spirit of hope and confidence in the future. Weather permitting, March will begin an era of great activity. Employment conditions showed practically no alterations during February, however, according to the bureau's studies, only one-half of 1 per cent more men being on reported pay rolls at the month's end than at its beginning. Only the textile and papering industries evidenced increased unemployment, and this was more than made up by additions to working forces in nearly all other lines. Out of sixty-five cities from which statistics are gathered by the department, forty-four showed small percentages in increases in employment, while twenty-one, including Manchester, N. T., a textile center with a pay roll decrease of 66.3 per cent, reported fewer men on pay rolls. New York City reported an increase in employment of 1.9 per cent, while Chicago had a decrease of one-half of 1 per cent.

Mr. Kazemier has had to return several thousand dollars to persons for whom he couldn't fill orders. This is a wonderful business and is growing to enormous proportions.

MRS. CRENSHAW HAS ROSS CHAPTER U. D. C.

L. S. Ross Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy enjoyed one of the most delightful meetings of the year on Friday, when Mrs. E. W. Crenshaw opened her beautiful home for its entertainment. A large attendance of the membership and several visitors made a goodly crowd, and the program rendered was excellent. The business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. P. S. Park was an important one and showed that the Bryan Chapter is taking its place among the leading chapters of Texas in meeting the obligations assigned. New members are being received, and renewed interest in the historical work is evidenced with every meeting. Mrs. Crenshaw has the thanks of the membership for the pleasant meeting held in her hospitable home. A refreshment plate was served at the conclusion of the program.

WEST TEXAS HAS BIG DUST STORM TODAY

Abilene, Texas, March 8.—A south wind, which at times exceeded 50 miles an hour and was maintained at the rate of about 40 miles speed, turned West Texas into one solid dust-obscured region today.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Elliott have returned from Houston.

"Old Glory" Will Be Sent to The Laundry for Economy

Washington, March 8.—In addition to returning Budget Director Dawes' army shirt, marines have hit on another method of economy, called unofficially "shining up the flag." Hitherto, when Old Glory became so smoke stained or otherwise soiled, it was customary to dispose of it by burning, with appropriate military honors. A new flag was then acquired. This is expensive. The marine corps has decided to wash the flag and use it over again.

Such a procedure for some unknown reason had never before been suggested. The corps uses 327 flags constantly, worth $10 to $15 apiece, so the expense of the old method can be appreciated. One result is that some $4500 has been saved already and it will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars each year. The one great trouble is that very few persons in the government service use their minds along the lines of economy. They are spending the tax payers' money—hence that it makes no difference.

Old Debs got out of the penitentiary in time to organize the Socialist party so he hasn't time to go to work.

Will H. Hayes and Konesaw Mountain Landis have a big job now. They should read the story of Sodom and Gomorrah every morning before breakfast.

Sunshine Joe Webb of the Waco News-Tribune lost $22.35 in an Austin restaurant. Perhaps Joe forgot he paid for a meal in the restaurant there.

Sometimes the man who can successfully man a peanut stand and pay a dividend is a better financier than the man who can financially wreck a railroad.

The Galveston News says: "Wonder if the sheriff or police know about the slot machines here; or knowing, do they care?" Galveston is a hard place. There is no officer so blind as an officer who cannot see. It's awful.

Sunshine Joe Webb says: "The Mexican Telegram's intelligent compositor made somebody refer to jazz as 'immortal' instead of 'immoral.' Lots of people don't know the difference Joe."

Good cattle, good hogs, good poultry, turkeys and chickens, will do much to restore permanent prosperity to Brazos county. We are moving along in this line at a good clip just now. Let the good work go on.

Rotten gasoline is being sold all over Texas and about the only thing that advances are the prices. Bad gasoline causes great losses to those who are trying to work with the worthless stuff now put on the market.

The Lufkin Leader, by Will West, arrived at the Eagle office and is a splendid paper. Will made the Livingston Enterprise a good paper, but the Leader is far excellent. Here's hoping, Will, that you will succeed all the time.

The McKinney Courier-Gazette says: "Going to College is a life-time pursuit of William Kemp of New York. He has attended Columbia University for 41 years." That's too long. He went to the wrong college. He ought to be able to learn something and do something before death overtakes him.

Sam Hill says: "Riches do not bring happiness they say, and poverty does not, we know; then what the deuce does bring it? Can't be the mails, for they only bring bills. Must be the females, then." Does Sam Miller, Sam Holloway, Sam Fore, Sam Harlow, Sam Hovle, Sam Williamson, Sam Braswell and the other Sams of the Texas Press Association agree to this? That settles it.

The railroads are not doing their duty toward bringing back normal conditions, more efficiency and production. From top to bottom there seems to be a spirit of irresponsibility that is appalling. The country needs better railroads and more efficient service at a more reasonable cost. The Eagle makes these suggestions in all good faith, but there must be a reformation.

Editor Ed F. Blackshear, of the Navasota Examiner-Review, says: Editor Ben F. Hargel in the La Grange Journal, wants to know how many are left who remember when the government issued currency in the denomination of four dollars, or when whiskey was forty cents the quart. All of which reminds us that no one has yet answered the query as to "How old is Ann?"

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING.

Representative W. F. Kellis, editor of the Sterling City News-Record, is a member of the "Flowers for the Living Club." He represents a great district out in West Texas and never forgets to say a kind word now and then. He says: "Representative Lee J. Rountree, editor of The Bryan Eagle and a member of the House of Representatives is being urged to make the race for Lieutenant Governor. Rountree is a four-square piece of timber out of which to make a good, solid and safe Lieutenant Governor. We hope Lee will make the race as he belongs to all Texas."

THORNDALE PAPER SOLD.

Thorndale, Texas, March 3.—The Thorndale Champion was sold Wednesday to Terry and Norris by the Herald Publishing Company of Cameron, the former owners. This paper is one of the original H. B. Terrell string, organized in 1917. Worth Terry of Thorndale will be the active editor and Floyd Norris of Taylor will have charge of the mechanical department. Fred M. Herndon, for the last 14 months editor and manager of the paper will devote his time to syndicated feature writing and in making his race for the legislature from Milam county.

THE REVERENT TRIBUTE TO PRAYER

A letter from County Attorney W. A. Tarver, Navarro County, dated Corsicana, Texas, March 4, to the editor of the Eagle says: "I have just read your sweet and reverent article on 'Prayer' entitled 'In the Hospital' and I suggest that you reprint it so that your friends here can have copies of it. I greatly enjoyed reading it—it breathes the holy spirit of prayer our means of communication with the gracious and eternal God. What a glorious privilege and source of genuine strength it is. I shall make use of your article in a couple of addresses I have to make tomorrow—Sunday. One will be to the Bible class of men which meets at the Palace theatre in this city and which is now having an attendance of about 200. Again I will use it at a mass meeting of the Methodists of the Fort Worth district at the First Methodist church in Fort Worth. I shall clip this article and preserve it in my scrap book. I shall never forget you and Mrs. Rountree during my college days at Southwestern. Both of you were a source of inspiration and encouragement to me in my struggling college days. I recall the intercollegiate Texas-Arkansas debate when you led the cheering for us when we had won and this was the most spontaneous tribute I ever received. * * * Pardon me for writing such a long letter but somehow after reading your splendid tribute to 'prayer' I just wanted to talk to you again a little while. If you reprint the article I want a number of copies. Your friend, W. A. TARVER."

IN THE HOSPITAL.

(By Lee J. Rountree.)

Night had fallen and electric lights pierced the grey gloom of the lowering clouds as the rain gently pattered on the roof of the hospital. It was the closing hours of the Holy Sabbath day, the shades were being drawn so that the sick and the weary, the suffering and the dying could rest. Clear and hopeful the great church bell across the street rang out bidding all to come to the house of God to worship. "What is that, a church bell?" asked the weary sufferer as she lay with her poor, broken body suffering and distressed. The awful fever had abated and she could hear the bells and see the flowers sent her by loving friends and hope to be well again. "It is the first time I've heard it in a long time. I hope they will pray for me." In all the ages the call of prayer has been the refuge in God's eternal promises—that He will not forsake us. In the storms, the mountain tops, the peaks and the crags in the ocean's roar and out on the vast and limitless plains God hears the prayers of His people and speaks to the deep of their souls. It has been so through all the ages. When Stonewall Jackson, the knightliest man of his race was dying on the battlefield with his face toward God he prayed: "Let me pass over Death's river and rest under the shade of the trees." With that eternal prayer he met his Pilot face to face. After Henry W. Grady had returned from Boston and had delivered his great speech to the world setting forth the purposes and hopes, ambitions and devotion of the people of the South in the dark days of reconstruction along the lines of the "New South" he was dying in the hospital at Atlanta with pneumonia and while the head of his heroic gray-haired mother was resting on his breast in the last hour he prayed: "God, you and mother will not desert me when my feet are in the river." The great and the strong, the powerful and the good have always remembered that God would not forsake His children and offered the prayer of redemption that rings true, strong and enduring throughout eternity "where no storms ever beat on the glittering strand and the years of eternity roll." When the church bells rang out upon the dying Sabbath as the clouds of night came on the noble woman voicing the everlasting and undying faith of God's children since the world's creation she said: "I hope they will pray for me," words mighty, powerful, deep and eternal more enduring than the earth is the refuge of prayer made glorious, eternal and undying by God's promises to His children who have lived, hoped, labored and loved for all time and we listen again to the soul-cry: "Cover my defenseless head and rest under the shade of Thy wing."

THE RIO GRANDE CABBAGE PRODUCERS.

(Houston Post Editorial.)

The farmers in the Valley already are discussing the spread of prices between the producer and the consumer of cabbage, of which there is now a large crop ready for harvest. Here is the situation as it seems to exist so far as the Houston market is concerned.

The price of cabbage at McAllen is $6 per ton. The freight rate from McAllen to Houston is $10.70 per ton. Refrigeration is $2.29 per ton. From Haringen and San Benito, the freight is $10.10 per ton. Therefore a ton of cabbage reaches Houston from McAllen with a total cost of $18.99 a ton, and from Haringen and San Benito of $18.39 per ton.

The wholesale price of crated cabbage in Houston is $60.00 to $70.00 a ton, the sum of $41.61 to $51.61 representing wholesaler's profit and cost of hauling, crating and storage. The retailer who pays at the rate of $60 to $70 a ton sells to the consumer at $160 to $200 a ton.

Assuming that the consumer pays $160 a ton, the distribution of the consumer's cost seems to be about as follows: The retailer takes $100 a ton for carrying the cabbage from the wholesaler to the consumer; the wholesaler takes $41.61 for hauling and crating the cabbage; the railroad takes $10.10 for delivering the cabbage to the Houston terminal; the ice company takes $2.29 a ton for refrigeration, leaving $6 a ton for the man who plants, cultivates, irrigates, harvests, hauls and loads the cabbage into the car, not to mention the taxes on $350-an-acre land. The retail profit of $100 on a ton of cabbage is exorbitant, but there is some waste to be accounted for, and there are high rents and other overhead charges that are heavy and high salaries.

The $41.61 cents the wholesaler must pay for crating, hauling, storage and some waste—just what we do not know—and unquestionably a good rate of profit. The refrigeration cost is about as low as could be expected, and the profit of it represents but a fraction of the spread.

As for the railroad charge, it is high, but represents little or no profit, when it is considered that the road penetrates a new country with now limited tonnage, that it must haul the refrigerator cars empty one way, and that costs of operation fixed in war time have not been materially deflated so far.

The transportation cost will come down with improving business conditions and the increase of tonnage, but even if the carriers were to cut their rates in half or haul free the probability is it would mean little to the producer or consumer. The retailer who takes a gross profit of 166 per cent would scarcely be concerned about transportation cost that was but 16 per cent of the cost of the article he sells, being but half a cent a pound.

Naturally, rates of profit on perishable products must be higher than on the non-perishable, but all things considered the producer is not getting a reasonable share of the consumers' cost in the matter of cabbage. The producer has a large investment, he takes most of the risk, and certainly does the greater part of the work incident to placing cabbage on the tables of the consumers.

Whether it would be possible for those who handle the product in consuming centers to take a broad interest in the welfare of the producers and, out of the large sum the consumers pay, see that the producers are fairly compensated, it is difficult to say. Surely there is, or ought to be, the very highest incentive or all the business interests of Houston to encourage the Valley producers and see that they get their share, and thus create good will between the Valley and the city.

Otherwise, in time the producers, through organization and selling arrangements that may eliminate many, if not all, the intermediate charges between the farm and the customer, will find a way to exercise a larger control over both wholesale and retail markets in their own behalf.

As the Post see it, Houston has much at stake in seeing that the Valley producers are encouraged, for before many years it will be by far the richest trade territory tributary to any Texas distributing center.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

When sorrow and sickness comes to our homes we appreciate kind words and flowers. Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, who was desperately ill with pneumonia at the Bryan hospital, is recovering. Accompanying some bright beautiful flowers for her the following message came from Hon. Judd Mortimer Lewis of Houston, president of the Texas Press Association: "The entire Lewis family were deeply grieved to learn of Mrs. Rountree's illness with pneumonia but we are rejoicing with you today that she is getting well again. We hope her recovery will be rapid and that in Denton in May we shall find her the same girl-hearted woman we have all grown to love. We are glad for you and with you give her the love of all of us."

Col. Frank P. Holland, of Dallas, editor of the Texas Farm and Ranch and Holland's Magazine, said: "These flowers are the token of our devotion and the expression of the entire Holland family. May God bless you and we hope you will soon be better."

When the awful fever had gone and Mrs. Rountree awoke and saw the beautiful flowers in profusion sent by dear friends in Bryan and Texas, including many children and by the fraternities of Bryan she said: "O, I will soon be well to enjoy these beautiful flowers for I do love them. I am better now."

Dr. Tanquary Explains the Habits Cotton Boll Weevil

(By Associated Press)

College Station, Texas, March 6.—History and life habits of the cotton boll weevil were told by Dr. M. C. Tanquary, chief of the division of entomology of Texas A. and M. College, in an article on methods of destroying the pest. Dr. Tanquary called attention to the statement by some persons that the boll weevil is a "blessing in disguise" and stated that this was not true in some sections of the cotton growing states. "The Mexican boll weevil is one of the most serious insect pests that the people of any country or section of a country have ever had to contend with," said Dr. Tanquary. "Like so many of our most important insect enemies in the United States, it came from another country. This self-invited guest came northward across the Rio Grande for the first time near Brownsville, Texas, in 1892. It then traveled northward at the rate of 50 or more miles per year, spreading eastward along the gulf coast and westward toward northwest Texas, until at the present time, its range includes more than 91 percent of the cotton growing area of Texas and extends in a broad belt eastward from Texas and Oklahoma to the Atlantic ocean. During its sweep over the country, it has taken a toll of many hundreds of millions of dollars from the cotton growers and is now levying an annual assessment of more than $100,000,000 from the south. In spite of this terrible loss, there are many people who say that the boll weevil is a blessing in disguise, because it is forcing the southern farmer to practice diversified farming. An extreme case of this view is evident in Alabama where the people of Enterprise, Coffee county, have erected a monument in the public square bearing the inscription "To the Boll Weevil, the Insect Which Brought Us Prosperity."

"It is true that diversification is one of the most crying needs of the south and that the boll weevil has forced diversification in many places, but it is also true that there are many parts of the south that are so much better suited for cotton growing than for anything else that cotton will always be the big money crop for those sections and the visitation of the boll weevil in such places has been little short of tragic."

"That is especially true where the soil is not very productive, that is, where the land under ordinary conditions and without the boll weevil will produce less than one-third bale per acre. Where the land is very fertile, if the best methods of cotton farming are practiced and control measures are used, cotton can be profitably grown in spite of the boll weevil. Like some other insect pests, the boll weevil is very particular in its food habits and restricts itself to one host plant. It will feed and breed only on wild and cultivated cottons."

"When the cotton plant dies at the end of the season and cold weather comes, the adult weevil begins to look around for protected places in which to spend the winter. If there is timber near the cotton field a great many of them find their way to it and hide themselves under leaves, bark, within the Spanish moss and in similar situations. Because of the better protection offered by timber, a much larger number of the weevils successfully pass the winter there than elsewhere, but even there, the mortality is heavy and only a comparatively small percentage emerges in the spring. In the fields, along roadsides, ditch banks, a heavy growth of vegetation, an accumulation of leaves brush piles and trash of any kind, offer excellent protection for the hibernation of the weevil."

"With the approach of warm weather in the late winter and early spring, the weevils begin to emerge from hibernation and when the first cotton plants appear above the ground, Mr. Boll Weevil will be found there ready to welcome them. Unfortunately all the weevils do not emerge at the same time, but they keep coming out over a period of three or four months. This long period of emergence is one thing that makes the control of the boll weevil more difficult.

"The weevils begin feeding at once on the tender foliage and when the first squares appear, the female begins to lay her eggs. She punctures the surface of the square, and then lays her egg in the puncture. The egg hatches in a few days and the young grub begins feeding on the tissues inside the square. From six to ten days or even more, depending upon temperature conditions, are spent in the feeding or larval stage after which it passes into the pupae or resting stage, still remaining inside the square. At the end of this period, which is ordinarily but a few days, the pupa transforms to an adult which makes it sway out of the square and is soon ready to begin feeding. The newly emerged females do not begin laying eggs for a period of about 8 or 10 days. There is a great deal of difference in the length of the life cycle of the weevils, depending upon temperatures and other weather conditions. There may be, however, as many as 5 or 6 generations in a single season. Control measures against any insect must be based, among other things, upon the individual and seasonal life history, the food habits and the locations in which the various life history stages are found, as well as upon the characteristics of the insect in its various stages. That is the reason a thorough study has to be made of any insect before the best control measures can be worked out. The best control measures now in use against the boll weevil may be divided into two classes—cultural methods and the use of poisons."

"Just as early as practicable in the fall, the cotton plants should be destroyed, in order to destroy all the immature stages of the weevil, thus preventing the emergence of any more adults and also depriving all adults that had already emerged of all food. This would cause all the weevils that remained to enter hibernation in a weakened condition and a very small percentage would come through winter alive. In addition to destroying the cotton plants immediately after picking, there is another important thing to be done. That is the burning over of the hibernating places after the first killing frost, wherever possible. In the spring there are certain practices connected with cotton culture which have an important bearing upon boll weevil control. Some of the most important of these may be summed up as follows: Have the seed bed in the best possible condition. Use fertilizer, excepting on the most fertile soils to force the growth of the plant. Plant the earliest maturing varieties adapted to the region. Cultivate to keep down weeds and hasten growth and maturing of the cotton. If all the above practices were followed by all the cotton growers over a large area, the damage done by the boll weevil would be reduced to a small fraction of what it is at the present time."

PLANTING TIME IS WHEN SPRING HAS FULLY COME

R. L. Jones, of Steep Hollow, was in town Monday and when he was asked if he had planted corn he replied: "No I generally try to plant corn about the 10th of March and cotton about the 10th of April. Of course it depends somewhat on the seasons. When the birds begin to sing and continue to sing it is a good sign spring is here and that is the time to plant." When asked what he thought of the Ground Hog story Mr. Jones said he generally judged the weather by its performance and not on the proposition of the alleged shadow of the ground hog which appeared or did not appear on February 2nd.

AUTOMATIC VOTING MACHINE

(Honey Grove Citizen)
The Texas Legislature recently ordered a voting machine to be installed in the State Capitol at Austin, and a committee met there the first of the week to pass on its qualifications and see if it should be kept. The cost of the machine is $30,000.

There are five of these machines operating in as many states, New York, and Wisconsin included, and one at the National Capitol in Washington for Congress. The Texas machine is claimed to save from ten to twelve days regular and special session and as the legislative cost is $2,500 per day will pay for itself in one session. The machine is a wonderful device and a vote is taken in fifty seconds where now it requires from ten to fifteen minutes to complete a roll call. Assistant Chief Clerk O. P. Brasford who had been in Washington, last January inspected the automatic voting machine and he and Representative Lee Rountree of Brazos county drew a resolution for the installation of the machine for Texas and Representative Hill of Wheeler who was temporarily in the chair ruled that the resolution was a change in the rules of the House and referred it to the committee on rules. Later on Rountree called for the resolution and it had been lost on the calendar. Representative Dinkler prepared the second resolution while Rountree held the floor and it was adopted and Speaker Thomas appointed a special committee on the machine now installed. The crowded calendar will be greatly relieved, if it proves successful.

PASSING OF GEORGE BOONE FRANKLIN

(Mrs. Jimmy Henry Rice).
Benchley, Texas, March 7.—Once again it has become my painful duty to chronicle the passing of one of Benchley's most worthy citizens, George Boone Franklin, who saw the first rays of light November 20, 1861, and who breathed his last February 24, 1922. Aged 60 years, 3 months and 4 days.

His suffering was great but of short duration, being taken sick on Thursday morning. He was carried to Bryan Hospital Friday, where he underwent an operation but to no avail for death claimed him as a victim ere another day had dawned; and thus had passed from our midst to the great beyond, a kind and loving father and a friend as true as steel. It can truthfully be said of him that he always lent a helping hand to anyone in distress, financially or otherwise and in this as other things he chose to do all the good that he possibly could. His unselfish life will be worth more to the youth of our country than we can possibly estimate. His help in material things counted for success to many an ambitious home builder and the encouragement he gave in words and wise counsel counted for as much also. The good deeds men do live after them. So therefore, the many good deeds he has done and much of the fatherly advice our dear departed friends has given the writer will in days to come be one of the sweetest memories of him.

The Bible says: "James 1-27, Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the Fatherless and widows in their afflictions and to keep himself unspotted from the world." But to live in this age means you will be spotted by man. The world is too envious for few men love their fellow man, neither does every man visit the fatherless and widows or seek their needs when they have no husband or father to care for them, but G. B. Franklin was one who never let an orphaned child be neglected or feel that it was forsaken and may his crown be as stary in Heaven as his good and noble deeds were plentiful on earth. He had been a resident of Benchley over 31 years. He being agent and operator for the H. and T. C. Railroad for about 20 years, where he was recognized and loved by both the aged man and little child for his gentle nature. Since retiring from public life he has been engaged in farming.

He was married to Miss Florence Toler, December 19, 1886, and to them were born 7 children, namely: Dr. H. L. Franklin and Toler Franklin of California; Jesse Franklin and Mrs. Lavenia Merka of Benchley, and Clarence Franklin of Wheelock. The two youngest being dead. Temple dying August 23, 1909 and the infant son dying March 8, 1907 and the good wife and mother departed this life March 17, 1907. Besides the five children he is survived by three small grand-daughters; two sisters; Mrs. Lizzie Boone of Texico, New Mexico, and Mrs. L. W. Bush of McKinney and one brother, Mr. Will Franklin of Texico, New Mexico.

To his sisters and brother we extend our heartfelt sympathy. To his heartbroken children whose comfort and pleasure he was we would coo as with brothers and sisters and cast a tear of condolence upon his silent grave and bid them look to the one who doeth all things well. He was followed to his last resting place by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends where he sleeps beside his wife "in the city of the dead" in Joshua, Texas, beneath a wilderness of flowers.

"Then tell me not in mournful numbers Life is but an empty dream For the soul is dead that slumbers, And things are not what they seem."

"Life is real! Life is earnest! And the grave is not its goal Dost thou dare, to dust returneth Was not spoken of the soul."

"Lives of great men all remind us We can make our lives sublime And departing, leave behind us Foot prints on the sands of time."

BOARD OF DIRECTORS CHAMBER COMMERCE DESIRE MORE HOMES

President W. H. Cole presided at the regular weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, and Secretary Sam E. Eberstadt was at the desk. The outstanding note sounded was more and better houses and improvements for Bryan and Brazos county. The meeting was more than a success and many good suggestions were made.
Present were: Prof. R. O. Allen, Dr. W. B. Bizzell, Walter Bradley, W. H. Cole, J. N. Dunaway, E. J. Fountain, Tyler Haswell, M. L. Parker, T. K. Lawrence, J. D. Martin, E. E. McAdams, Lee J. Rountree, A. M. Waldron, R. S. Webb, and Secretary S. E. Eberstadt.
City Manager E. E. McAdams called attention to the fact that Monday, March 12, would begin "Health Week" and upon motion the plan was endorsed by the board of directors.
A general discussion followed by members of the board regarding the Building and Loan Association, the planting of trees along the College-Bryan Highway, and the building of homes in the different additions. It was shown, too, that the attendance of the members of the board of directors at the weekly meetings was the best going board in Texas. Each director spends about a week each year in attending meetings and working for the interest of the town.
REPRESENTATIVE ROUNTREE FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.
(From Houston Chronicle)
Navasota, Texas, March 7.—While in Navasota, Hon. Lee J. Rountree, of Brazos county, member of the Twenty-second district, composed of Grimes and Brazos counties, was urged to make the race for lieutenant governor. Mr. Rountree represents one of the most important districts in Texas, educationally and agriculturally for our own beloved and renowned A. & M. College is in his district. Because he rendered such distinguished service to the entire state as a member of the Twenty-Seventh legislature, especially in his work on revenue and taxation, and the appropriation committee, the two most important committees in our legislature, his neighbors and friends feel that the state's interests could not be better served than by putting Honorable Lee J. Rountree in the lieutenant governor's chair. As president of the state senate, he would be in position to render even greater service than he did in the last legislature, and the entire state recognized in him the invincible leader and stalwart friend of educational and agricultural interests in Texas.
Mr. Rountree's services were striking, and perhaps one of his most far-reaching and constructive efforts may be found in his joint authorship of the co-operative marketing bill, which all students of legislation recognized as being a piece of statesmanship of the highest order. This bill was the greatest piece of legislation ever passed for the farmer and stock raiser of Texas. He introduced the state forestry bill which means much to Texas in the future.
He is not only well known over the entire state, but in national circles he holds a secure place. In 1915 he was elected, at San Francisco, president of the National Editorial association and presided at its meetings in New York City in 1916. He is being urged by his friends in his congressional district, to make the race for congress to take the place of Hon. Rufus Hardy, but his neighbors want him to make the race for lieutenant governor because of the enlarged service to his state this will render. And Texas needs his outstanding statesmanship today.
He is engaging in the newspaper banking and farming business, and is a man of sound judgment. His family has been in Texas nearly 100 years. His mother was born in Washington county in the days of the Republic when Washington county embraced Brazos county and under the shadow of old Washington, where Texas independence was declared, and no man surpasses him in 100 per cent Americanism. He was born and reared in Hayes county. The state knows and recognizes him as one of the best students of state and national affairs in all Texas.
With Lee J. Rountree as presiding officer of the state senate, statecraft would occupy a high and secure plane. The newspapers of Texas the guardians of that Fourth Estate love and honor him from the Panhandle to the gulf and from El Paso to Texas. They are always for Lee J. Rountree. Sincerely yours,
CLARA LANG.
Endorsement is Given.
Referring to the above, Mr. Rountree was for many years a citizen of Hayes county, and has lots of friends in the county who will go their length for him. They are proud of the fact that he was a former citizen of the county. The Times considers him worthy and fit, and as Hon. Lynch Davidson is not expected to make the race Rountree will undoubtedly be selected, it matters not who enters the race if he consents to become a candidate.—F. F. Harwell in San Marcos Times.

AMUSING "TRIAL" IS HELD BY 50 MEMBERS SNELL POST VETERANS

(By J. S. McNeel, Jr.)
About sixty men witnessed a "mock" trial of an "alleged" bootlegger, which was conducted by the fifty members of the John N. Snell Post, Disabled Veterans of the World War, in the auditorium of Carnegie Library Wednesday night. This was the most pretentious program that has yet been put on by the post and the trial was unusually "true to life" to the nth degree.
C. T. Holmes acted as judge and promptly at 7:30 o'clock he called the twelve petit jurors of the District Court to order. The jurors were: J. W. Boney, foreman; O. L. Horne, Lewis Miers, C. N. Knight, W. J. Wilson, A. L. Brantley, R. W. Sharp, N. H. Turner, W. W. McCormack, O. N. Thornton, N. B. Haley and K. C. Carpenter. R. M. Campbell, the defendant, (alias Oklahoma Charlie, alias Red River Dick, alias Dead Shot Harry) was charged "with (1) having owned and operated an illicit whiskey still on or about February 7, in Brazos county, (2) had in his possession and sold to certain parties intoxicating whiskey in Bryan, (3) and when arrested had on his person two bottles of whiskey, a box of snuff, a pair of dice, a pack of greasy cards, three six shooters, two dirk knives and a foul breath."
Attorneys for the state were R. W. Hunnicutt, commander of the local post, and R. T. Lange. Lawyers for the defendants were V. E. Bonham and A. Carlisle. The states witnesses were: J. T. Caffey, "Sheriff" S. G. Hester Orndorff, Patterson, G. R. Newell. Witnesses for Thompson were G. W. Humanson, M. W. Banta, A. M. Odom, Frank S. Jones and Hicks. J. S. McNeel of the Bryan Eagle was court stenographer.
Caffey was the first witness for the state called to the stand. While testifying that he once met Thompson (defendant) drunk and that Thompson said "You know who I am? I'm Tom Slaughter! I'm a bad guy!" The defendant made for the door and escaped. He was recaptured later and returned to the court room. "Sheriff" Hester, Orndorff Patterson and G. R. Newell, witnesses for the state, all testified in the order named, corroborating the statements of Caffey, that Thompson had been a train robber, automobile thief, hijacker and crook all his life, but that two years ago he "reformed," and became a Baptist evangelist holding meetings in Texas and Georgia and other states. It was alleged that Thompson preached while his singer, Humanson peddled whiskey in the congregation. On arriving in Bryan Thompson was taken to "Rat Row" in "niggertown" where he bought whiskey.
The defense witnesses strove to prove that Thompson had converted many spirits, but that the "spirits" used did not come out of a jug. A. M. Odom, third defense witness called, created a sensation in the court room when in reply to the question as to what his occupation was, he said: "Wal I'm a rounder horse thief a bootlegger and anything else against the law." Asked if he knew many people in Bryan he said "only a few bootleggers."
Defense attorneys alleged a "frame up" by the state. Both state's attorneys denied this and R. W. Hunnicutt made an eloquent appeal for a prison sentence.
The jury left the court room at 9:20 p. m. and returned at 9:35 to report a hung jury with three for acquittal. The case was held over for re-trial.
The post considered the proposed constitution and by-laws, both of which were read by R. J. Watson, chairman of the committee on the constitution, and the measure will be discussed more fully at the meeting next Thursday, March 9. All meetings will be held at the Carnegie Library and Commander R. W. Hunnicutt stated that a good program is scheduled for the next meeting.
Members, when addressing each other, are supposed to call each other "comrade" according to the regulations of the national organization, the commander said. Hereafter "comrade" is to be the salutation between members of the post. The term is a war phrase, coming from the idea that all veterans of the World War were "comrades-in-arms," a good meeting is anticipated for next week and the membership is expected to increase from its present size of fifty to seventy or seventy-five.

When an express wagon, heading north on Main street late Monday afternoon dropped a box containing about three dozen perfectly good eggs to the pavement, there were two colored "pemmies" there to pick them up. About one dozen eggs were broken, but the men sorted out the "hen fruit" in its crumbled state, saying that they would have an egg "feast" when they got home.

BRAZOS COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS CLUB DEPT.

Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason
"If you are going to do anything permanent for the average man, you must begin before he is a man. The chance of success lies in working with the boy, and not with the man."—Theodore Roosevelt.
The Farm Boys' Division of the Summer Session of the A. and M. College of Texas will be conducted July 3-29, and the course will cover such important subjects as agricultural engineering, agronomy, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, horticulture, poultry husbandry, etc. This elementary, but practical, course has been specially prepared for boys not under fourteen years or over eighteen years of age. A wonderful opportunity is again offered Brazos county boys, and it is hoped that many will take advantage of it.
"Boys and girls club work is so fundamentally sound and practical in its purposes that it is challenging the citizenship of the nation—whether private or in association by business or otherwise—to take advantage of the privilege of assisting in instilling into the minds of our boys and girls of the rural communities—who will be the men and women of our farms tomorrow, the highest ideals of citizenship."—Thos. E. Wilson.
The Farm and Fireside, March, gives the story of John Dougherty, a Linn county, Iowa, farmer who cleared and deposited in a savings bank during 1921 $2,335.70 from a 40-acre farm. The story as told by Mr. Dougherty himself clearly shows that he practiced a well balanced system of agriculture, and he concluded his story by saying: "I believe one important reason I made money in 1921 was that I had, as I always try to have, a careful check on just what I am doing, and that I stuck to my practice of farming as though it were always hard times."
The Banker-Farmer, January, under the heading, "Their Troubles Ours," makes the following statement: "Agriculture is the greatest and fundamentally the most important of our American business industries. The cities are but the branches of the tree of national life, the roots of which go deeply into the land. We all flourish or decline with the farmer." At the recent Banker-Farmer Congress, held at College Station, March 2, the one note of concord sounded throughout all the deliberations was that of the interdependence of the farmer and the business man, and also a recognition by all that now, as never before, is the time when the heartiest cooperation of the business man and the farmer, one for the other, should be practiced. The meeting will, evidently, result in untold good to the agricultural interests of the state.
The farm at Union Hill belonging to Dr. B. Youngblood, director of the Experiment Station, College Station, Texas, continues to attract attention of passers-by. First, the splendid terraces built to check erosion and make possible the building up of a depleted soil gave a vision to many farmers of what might be done with their lands rapidly washing away. Now, that the washing has been checked, Dr. Youngblood has set the place in beautiful and useful fruit trees, berries, shrubbery, etc., there being 200 keifer pears, 100 Elberta peaches, 50 figs, 100 Mottley plums, 100 Chinese elms, 20 nectarines, 50 dewberries, 10 Ness berries, 300 strawberries, 100 improved Jubaeus, 29 pecans, etc. This heretofore waste place will in the near future be a veritable beauty spot, and lend encouragement to the matter of more home orchards for Brazos county.
Report comes that Mr. I. M. Cook, a prosperous farmer of the Steep Hollow community, has planted out 500 young peach trees this season, thus making a valuable addition to his already splendid orchard, from which he has been marketing, during the past two or three years, some very fine peaches.
The Tabor Boys' and Girls' Victory Community Agricultural Club reports the following officers having been elected: Miss Una Edge, president; Julian Cobb, vice president; Miss Mary Ruth Holden, secretary; Miss Louise Blanton, assistant secretary; Mr. E. C. Martin, club leader; Miss Mary Locke, assistant club leader; time of meeting, every other Wednesday, 2:30 p. m. You have a splendid set of officers, Tabor, and it is obvious that the other clubs of the county, and state as to that, will have to work to take that "victory" out of the name of your organization. If I were in their place I'd pick it out. If I were in your place, with the enviable reputation of having won the championship in club work last year and knowing that 20,000 boys and girls will try to hand you "willows" for your "laurels," by golly I'd die before any red headed girl or freckled faced boy should beat me. The fight is on! "Lay on McDuff!"
Mr. W. E. Moore, a progressive farmer of Steep Hollow community, has been having some fine terracing done this week. Mr. Moore says that he sees now that he ought to have had the county agent out helping him in this important work long ago before much of his good soil washed away.
County Agent Ewing of Robertson county compliments the county agent of Brazos county. Some time ago a specialist was in Robertson making lectures on dairy farming, and when he remarked that he would next going to enlarge his flock and sell eggs.

CITY AWAITS ARRIVAL WATER MAIN PIPE FOR REPLACING OLD LINES

The city is now waiting on the arrival of water main material 4,000 feet of 6-inch cast iron water main pipe, 3,100 feet of which is to be laid on College Avenue to extend fire protection to the city limits of Bryan. Approximately 900 feet will be put down on 28th street from the I. & G. N. depot to the Bryan hospital replacing the old 4-inch line with 6-inch mains and about 700 feet of 4-inch pipe on Sterling street from 28th street to 30th street for fire protection of the southwestern portion of the city.
The object of the city government is to lay no water mains smaller than 6-inch pipe as the latter size secures better protection for city property than with the 4-inch pipe. That is one of the eventual aims of the present administration, according to City Manager E. E. McAdams Wednesday.
VOCATIONAL NEWS LETTER—GROUP A
KURTEN, RELIANCE AND TABOR SCHOOLS.
Up to the present writing Group A has vaccinated 155 calves against black-leg and culled 15 flocks of poultry. The Kurten Vocational Club is meeting regularly twice each month and is planning some good work for vocational education in this section for the spring and summer. Among the monuments erected to the memory of vocational education in this section are nine self-feeders and two modern poultry houses, a concrete foundation for the Delco Light plant at Tabor and also one for the water fountain at Reliance. Group A sent a team of three men to the Houston Fair November 11, winning a place above several schools that have had the work for two years. Deserving special mention was the place won by Homer Mathis. These teams expect to compete in the Fat Stock show at Fort Worth and at the spring contest at the A. & M. College.
Personal Mention.
Freddie Odom of Kurten has provided for his Duroc sow, now with litter of pigs a fine Bermuda pasture.
Wallace Mathis of Reliance has as his project Bourbon Red turkeys. It might be well to keep this in mind until next Christmas.
Curtis Cobb is competing with the A. & M. College in the hog business. He has already on his farm 19 registered Poland Chinas.
Mr. Will Shealey of Reliance recently purchased a $40 Duroc Jersey gilt, from A. & M. College and is ordering tankage for feed, the wisest thing to do.
Jim Kurten of Kurten has the right idea of hog raising. He is ordering tankage for his Poland China gilt which he purchased from Raymond Mathis of group B.
Howard Smith of Tabor has a pen of Single Comb Leghorns and is planning to enlarge his flock and sell eggs.
